

INTERNET EXPLORER

IN

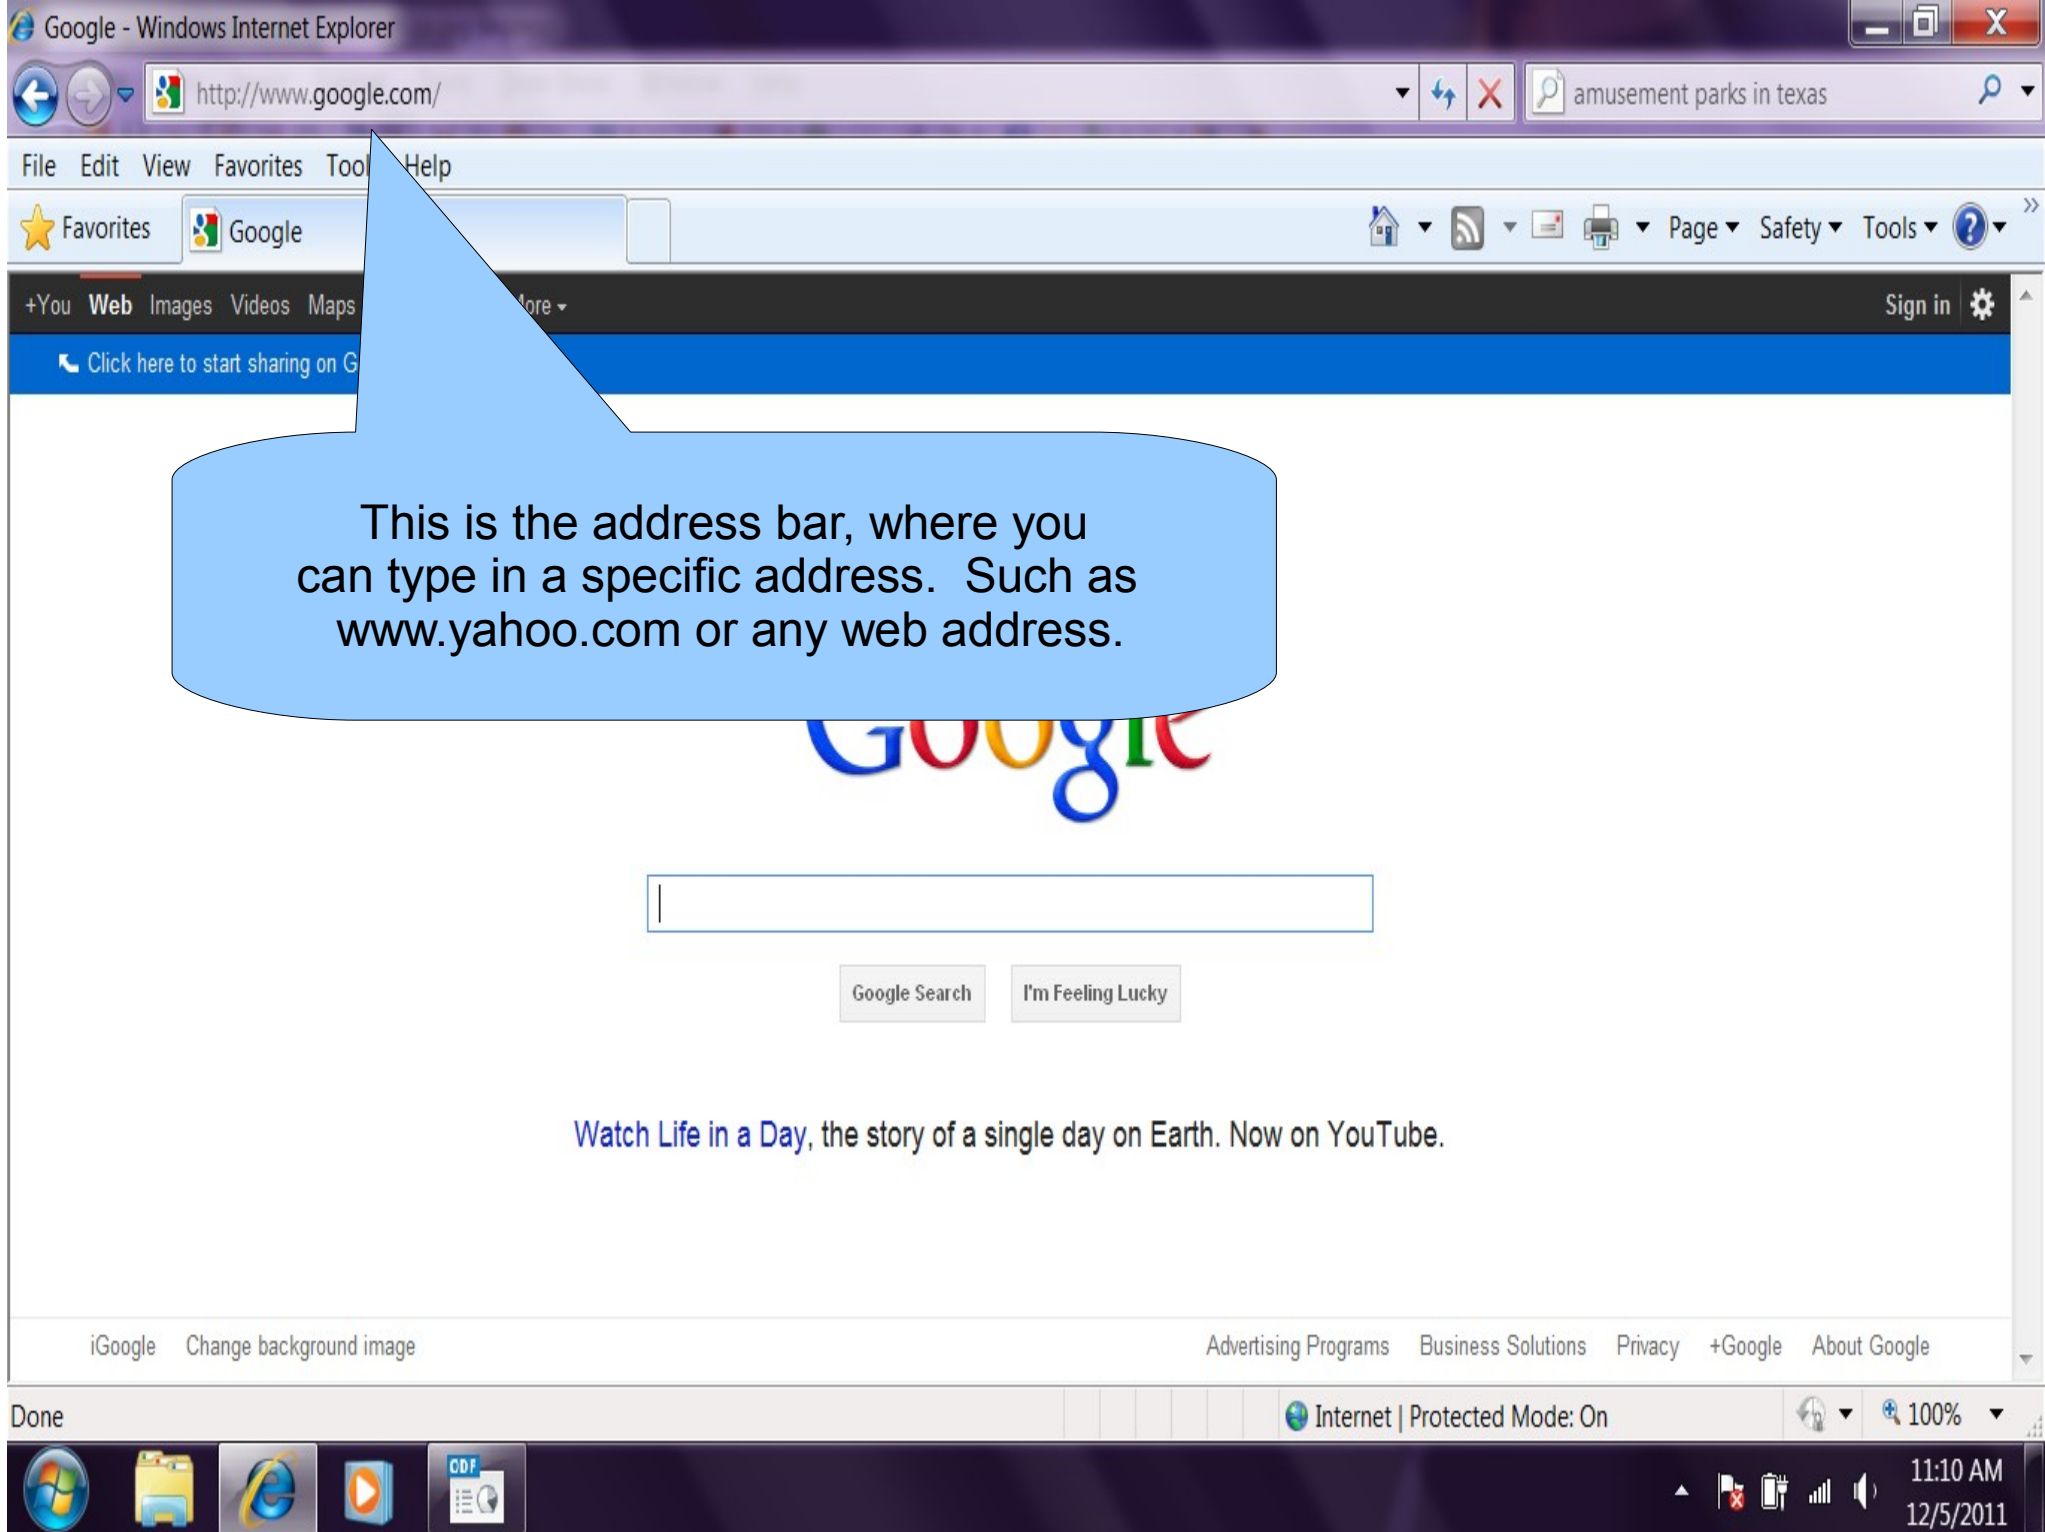

DETAIL

The first page you see when you open up your Internet Explorer will be your home page.

Google Search I'm Feeling Lucky

Watch Life in a Day, the story of a single day on Earth. Now on YouTube.

This is the address bar, where you can type in a specific address. Such as www.yahoo.com or any web address.

Google Search

I'm Feeling Lucky

Watch Life in a Day, the story of a single day on Earth. Now on YouTube.

iGoogle Change background image

Advertising Programs Business Solutions Privacy +Google About Google

This is the search Bar in the Google Search Engine

Google Search I'm Feeling Lucky

Watch Life in a Day, the story of a single day on Earth. Now on YouTube.

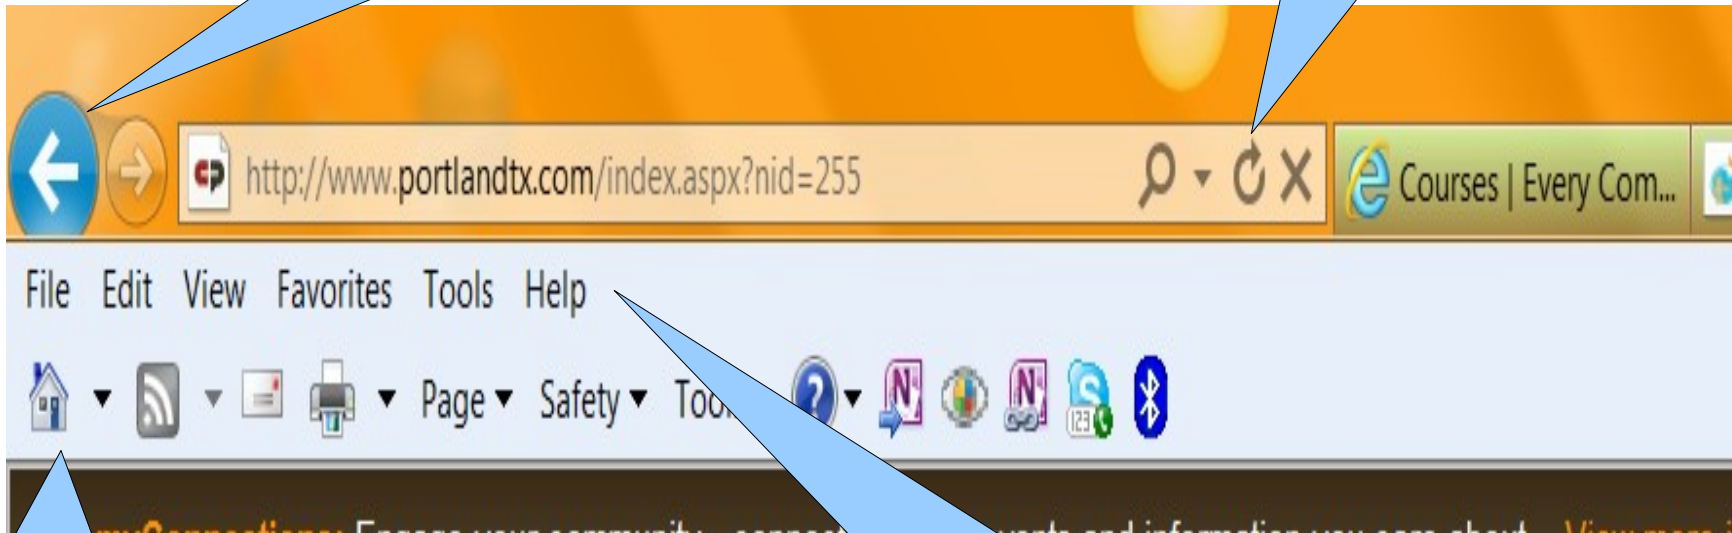

Most website contain links. Links will direct you to another page. A link may be text or an image. The Portland Texas website contain links that direct you to different pages, the links are both text and graphics.

There are several useful navigation buttons to assist you as you browse. Below is the top left portion of Internet Explorer.

This is the back button. Pressing this will help you go back to the previous page.

This is the refresh button

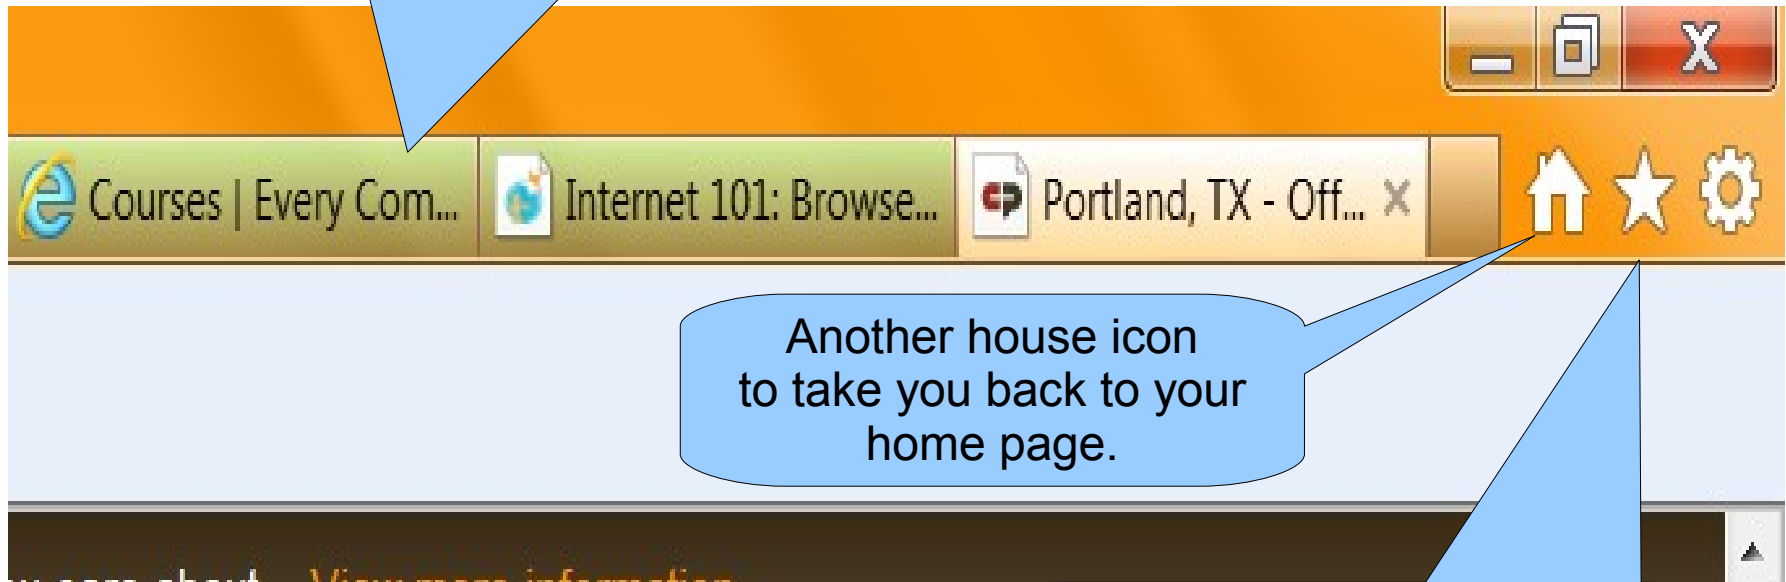

You can get back to your home page by click on the house icon

This is your menu bar where you can save favorite website, print and other functions

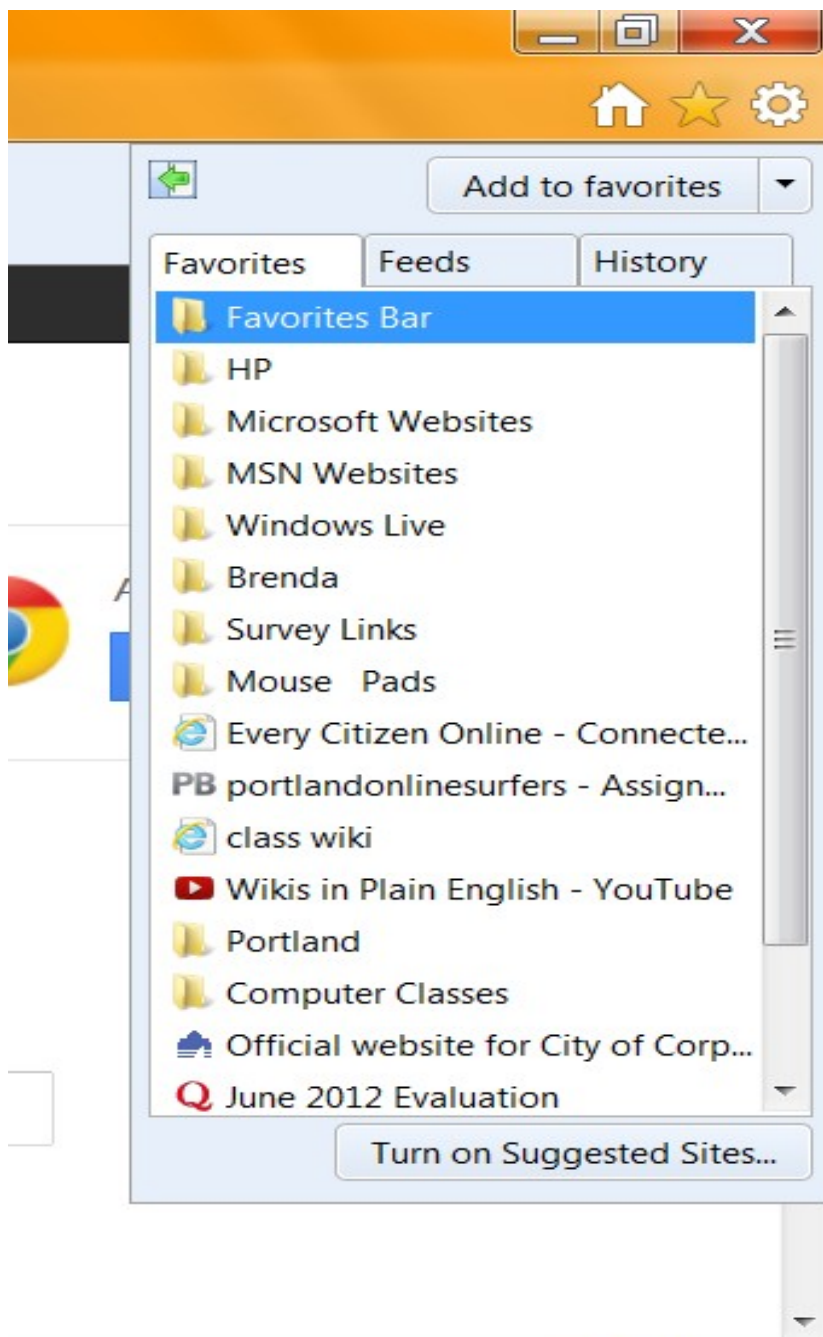

Now lets explore the right side of the browser.

As you click on links you will bring up separate web pages. Each web page will have it's own tab.

Another house icon to take you back to your home page.

The Star button contains your favorites among other things

Pressing the star brings up a menu. Here you can access your favorites and add to favorites. Even view your history.

Note the three tabs at the top, clicking on the FAVORITES tab allows you to access your favorites, the FEED tab allows you to subscribe to news feeds on anything that interest you. The HISTORY tab allows you to review websites you have been to in the past.